WHEREAS, understanding the serious nature of our legal obligations as a fiduciary, and the significance of our sober judgment and thoughtful, forward-looking, quantitative and qualitative decision-making; and

WHEREAS, the Restated Articles of Incorporation of the College to the Board of Trustees (hereinafter referred to as the “Trustees”) sole responsibility for managing the affairs of the College and grant to the Board of Trustees by way of illustration and not limitation, the power to adopt by-laws, authorize the creation or discontinuance of any educational programs of the college, arrange curricula and courses of study, elect a president and all professors or teachers of the college, among other duties not specifically enumerated; and

WHEREAS, understanding the import of our fiduciary duty, “A trustee is a fiduciary. And ‘fiduciary’ is a broader and more encompassing term. [We are] responsible for its overall health and the wise and effective use of its resources.”²⁵; and

WHEREAS, understanding the serious nature of our legal obligations as a fiduciary, and the significance of our sober judgment and thoughtful, forward-looking, quantitative and qualitative decision-making; and

WHEREAS, understanding that trustees placed in stewardship of a ministry are held to a higher account by both the public and the polity, yet demanded to have higher standards and culpability by the Lord, Jesus Christ, illustrated throughout Scripture, but specifically in James 3:1²⁶, “Let not many of you become teachers, our brethren, knowing that as such we will incur a stricter judgment”; and

WHEREAS, understanding that our decisions have both immediate and long-term consequences, and directly impact the almost 2,000 young adults desirous of a high quality education with rigorous academic standards, in an environment conducive to learning and young adult development, with robust and superior extracurricular activities and athletics which enhance student life, administered by the mission, vision, and values of the College; and

WHEREAS, understanding that our decisions have both immediate and long-term consequences, and impacts the nation and world as the College has ventured beyond its campus boundaries in expansion to further its mission, vision, and values; and

WHEREAS, understanding that our decisions affect the Kingdom of God and people’s perceptions of the Lord, Jesus Christ, and that each decision is scrutinized and evaluated critically by both friends and foes of the Kingdom and that each, even the seemingly mundane and banal, decision has an eternal impact; and

WHEREAS, the College is precariously on warning by its accrediting body and at risk for losing employees and staff because of the President's behavior and understanding of his role as Chief Executive Officer; and
